Local Assistive Technology Professional Earns High Creditation

Auburn, ME — Jennifer Davis, Complex Rehabilitation Equipment Specialist at Bedard Medical Supplies, has earned the Assistive Technology Professional (ATP) certification by the Rehabilitation Engineering and Assistive Technology Society of North America (RESNA).

A trained assistive technology professional analyzes the needs of individuals with disabilities, assists in the selection of the appropriate equipment and trains the consumer how to properly use the specific equipment.

Davis joined Bedard Medical Supplies in 2011. She works closely with physicians, therapists, and customers to determine the best product to meet the patient's mobility and positioning needs. "Earning my ATP certification enables me to help local physicians. Now, there is someone local to help physicians and healthcare staff work through all the documentation of fitting a patient with the correct mobility equipment." Davis is excited to use her ATP certification to help her patients.

Davis joins almost 4,000 rehabilitation engineers, occupational therapists, physical therapists, speech and language pathologists, suppliers, educators and other professionals who have successfully received their certification.
